> "Free Wool." [TOLEDO BLADE.]

That excellent journal, the Rural New Yorker, has been earrying on a discussion in its columns on the relation of the farmers to the tariff, which has developed some very interesting facts. One of these is the refutation of the contention of the free traders that "free raw materials" are a necessity for the American manufacturer, in order that he may "compete in the markets of the world." Take wool for an illustration. The free traders have made it free in the Wilson Bill, on the plea that it benefits the maninfacturers of cloths. The duty placed' on the finer grades of wool by the Mc-Kinley Bill is 11 cents a pound. An ordinary business suit weighs about six pounds, including linings, trimmings, buttons, etc. But counting these as all wool, and admitting for the sake of argument that the duty is paid by the man who buys the snit (which is by no means true,) and yet the tariff raises the price of the snit only 66 cents! The Rural discusses this point as follows: "Allowing the price of labor and the price of linings, trimmings and the materials that go to make up the finished suit or garments to remain unchanged, how much is free wool going to cheapen woolen elothing? A laboring man once answered this question by saying one-half; another from ful stuff, as I said before-much dicate. Now, what are the facts? The ing is a purely theoretical one, and the day comes that a poor, honest difference on a heavy winter suit prices, and we shall be at their mercy namlte cartridges I shall want to 33 cents; on trousers, 161/2 cents; on leave the country. Some of us get under shirts, or drawers, from four to off at this next station, while the six cents: pair of socks one cent: others go a little further down the woman's dress, twenty-six cents, child's flannel dress, 51/2 cents woman's or child's stockings, one to two eents a pair; broadeloth suit, 55 eents; one yard carpeting, nine cents. These figures are based upon the supposition that all the cloths are made of wool only, but if the cloths have a mixture of cotton or shoddy, then these figures would all be less according as there is more shoddy and less wool.

> "Would this very slight difference in the cost of free wool elothing induce the people to buy so much more as to cause 'great factories to spring up like magie, employing increased workmen enough to consume the extra amount of products which farmers, driven by free wool out of sheepralsing, would have to grow to replace of sheep and wool industries? Would the small saving on woolen clothing be any compensation for the millions of loss that would accrue to the country by the destruction of 45,000,000 slicep and their product, which now give employment to hundreds of thousands? Texas alone has more search, than 100,000 engaged in sheep industries. Would free wool enable our manufacturers to export large quantities of cloth to sell in markets where they would come in competition with those nations who have not only free wool, but low wages?"

Hon. George W. Owens, formerly a Representative in Congress from a Pennsylvania District, sent a communication on this subject to the Ways and Means Committee some weeks ago, which disenses the same topie, and shows up the fallacy of the free trade position. Mr. Owens is a farmer. He takes the position that a retention of the duty on imported wools is necessary, because the American farmer eannot possibly pay American wages to his farm help and compete successfully with the wool kings of Australia, Argentina and South Africa, where wages are nominal, and where a warmer elimate, giving pasture throughout the year, renders wool production so cheap. Mr. Owens says:

"Every one knows that a good, neat, all-wool suit of clothes can be bought for about $12, and a warm heavy, coarse, all-wool suit of elothes for $7 and less.

"I just this moment weighed a fine diagonal wool suit, also a coarse wool suit (coat, pants and vest,) and 'they weighed five and six pounds respectively, Now, the protection the wool grower now has in each of these suits amounts to 60 or 70 cents. A merchant might lay down two suits of elothes before a customer, and say that one was worth $16 and $16.75, and we might defy any member of Congress or any one to tell which suit had the greater value, the difference is so little. It might be the make or the lining, or it might not be there at all. Clothing is reasonaof the price.

"I have now before me bills of sale of wool made from 1886 to 1892 tor unwashed clothing and combing wool at from 26 to 28 cents per pound. The same quality of wool to-day will not net more than 15 to 16 eents per pound. In fact, my merchant informs me that it is dull even at those

"Yet we are advised to keep our sheep. Why should we do so? Sheep, which in former years brought from $3 to $4 per head on the farm, are now dull at $2, and they are not sold to farmers. They are sent to market and slaughtered. And when this destruction is complete the consumer will pay dearly for foreign-made elothing. But the advocates of free wool say that our manufacturers must have free raw material. What is raw material? That which is raw material to one is the finished product to another. It would perhaps be safe to define It as any commodity that comes to us from nature's God without any labor in it. "But is wool of this character? Did you ever take care of a flock of slicep, protect them from dogs and other enemies, herd and feed them, assist a new-born lamb on a cold winter morning to take its first nourishment If any member of Congress has done this work, he will conclude that wool is not so very "raw material."

The lacts stated in these two extwo to three dollars. A man who tructs destroy the fallacious theory of wore a broad-cloth seventy-five dol- the free traders that free wool is neclar suit thought free wool would re- essary to low priced clothing. The duce the cost of bis fine suit fifteen to cost of wool as a raw material is altwenty dollars. Besides, what will be the recents per pound. Now, with these sult of leaving our farmers at the facts before us, how much would the mercy of the wool kings of South prices be changed or cheapened? It is comparatively easy for a suecessful hunter to bring home a dead moose, but it is not so easy with a live one. It took five weeks, climbing over the hills, wading the morasses or fording the rivers which marked the thirty miles' distance between the scene of the capture and the first settlement. The hunter at times had to employ a catamaran to cross the streams, the moose swlmmlng behind. Finally he reached the Intercelonial, took a box car, which was just high enough for the moose, and brought his prize to Monetoa. - N. Y. Journal.

CHAPLAIN OF THE HOUSE. Something About the Young Man Re. cently Elected to This Office.

Rev. Edward B. Bagby, who was recently elected to be chaplain of the house in place of Rev. S. W. Haddaway, who died after a brief occupation of the office, is a very young mane to occupy so conspienous a position, though Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the senate, was chosen chaphala of the house when but twenty-two years of age. Rev. Mr. Bagby was born September 29, 1865, In King and Queen county, Va., so that he is but little more than twenty-eight. He was reared in Richmond, obtained his education at Aberdeen academy, the Kentneky university and the Yale divinity school. This young Virginian, enlisted In Christian work as a representative of the denomination of the Disciples of Christ, found his first charge along the line bly cheap, and no one is complaining of the Chesapeake & Obio railroad, ministering to the people of Ronceverte, Clifton Forge and Slinks Grove. From these little churches In these towns he went to Newport News to preach, until he became engaged lu evangellstic work among many churches, which he visited to conduct revivals. In April, 1891, the Vermont Avenue Christian church, Washington, built a chapel on Capitol Hill, and called upon Rev. Mr. Bagby to conduct a revival meeting to awaken laterest in the undertaking. At that meeting about one hundred converts were added to the church, and the interest aroused has been so maintained under the ministrations of the young pastor that the Ninth Street Christian church numbers, with two and onehalf years of existence, more than four hundred members, including a very large body of active Christian Endeavorers. Mr. Bagby Is tall, dark, slight and beardless. He does not wear clothes of ministerial cut, and he does not wear a white tie. His voice is soft and smooth, and he uses it without dramatic effort in prayers of the simplest character, none of which are long. - Harper's Weekly.

AT the October term of the Court of Claims nine citizens of the county were released from paying poil tax and at the January term thirty-one more, making a total of forty for the two sessions. Conservative estimates place the number of citizens in the county who are released from poll tux at not much less than 800. Some of these men who are released are worth several thousand dollars. The Republican party of Grayson county has reached one of the most important periods in its history since the war, with the Grayson Ragle as its banner and harmony and unity in its ranks, the Republican party will "turn the rascals out," and then right will triumph over wrong, and there will be a chance to undo the rotten devices by which this county's government is carried on. Yes, the rings and the cliques will be turned down and clean, honest men put in

On looking over the Hartford Herald I noticed an article from Reckport, Ky., signed by Suggs In his article he refers to the Democratic party of Kentucky as having formulated so many Democratic platforms, Yes, it has planned a great many, in fact, one two many for its own good. It planned that "immortal document" of '92 and it was that self same document that has caused factories to be torn down and soup houses erected instead, and in consequence of that, Kentucky planned platforms, upon which thousands of working men are crying for work and tens of thousands of wives and children are calling for bread, and yet the grandest declaration a Kentuckian can make is

"I am a Democrat."

By my referring to Suggs' article don't understand me to be in tayor of Compulsory Education, I don't believe there is the slightest chance of a compulsory education bill being passed by the present Legislature. But understand me, I don't propose to be educated in Demecratic principles. FROM KANSAS

Ohto County's Blind Tigers.

WELLINGTON, KAN., Jan. 26, 1894. EDITOR REPUBLICAN:-It does my heart good to see that nt least two of Beaver Dam's good eitizens have come out on the side of right and have said in sentiment, if not in words, "let others do as they mny, but as for us, we are determined to stand for fav, order and the best interests of society," and i hope there are many more of the good citizens, not only of Beaver Dam, but of the entire county, that are like-minded, It is a fact that the good people of Ohio county have spoken in regard to this netarious traffic and their voices gave forth no uncertain sound, and yet, despite this fact, there are men so degraded and so devoid of self respect and respect for their fellow man, as to still persist in engaging in a business that is not only in direct opposition to the will of the people, but is absolutely a steach and an eyesore to every time lady and gentleman.

The liquor tradic is a traffic in which no gentleman will engage, even when it is permitted by law, but when the law strictly forbids any one to deal in it, is the man who allows it sobl any more of a gentleman than he who dispenses it? I hold that he is not, and man who has such knowledge comes very near being an accessory after the fact, and as such I believe that it would severely tax the scruples of a conscientious jury to return a verdiet of "not guilty," were he tried before a court of justice, for being such. But if such knowledge got the private citizen into such a straight as this, pray, on, pray, tell me into what kind of a fix will it get the public officer, whose sworn duty it is to enforce the law to the best of his ability? How does the grand juror, whose solemn and sworn duty it is to investigate these things, ease his conscience when he makes but fittle or no effort to bring those who violate the faw, in this respect, to justice? It is hard to believe that our public officers and grand jurors have any knowledge of the misdoings of those who violate the law in Ohio county, but it is harder still to believe that they are altogether ignorant of them when things are in the state of affairs that "Observer" and the papers tell us they are in in Beaver Dam and Hartford. Now, I would like to see others who are interested in the wellare of the county and in the welfare of society come out with "Observer" and "Well Wisher" and stand for right and see that the officers do their duty and see that those who are violating the law are speedily brought to justice. Do not be afraid of tajuring your businessor reputation by opposing wrongdoing. Let the evil doers know upon which side of the question you stand, and do not give them a chance to twit you by saying that you are afraid to write over your own name. I want to say to "Observer" and Well Wisher" that I think if they halwritten over their own signatures. instead of nom de plumes, they would have accomplished much more. It looks a fittle like you were alraid to come square out and let the people know just where you stand. Why need a man want or wish to write over a nom de plume when he has such a cause at stake? I hold that the good of the cause demands that they should write over their own signatures, and that it is an exhibition of over modesty for them not to do so. We need not be afraid of being accused of writing just merely for the sake of sceing our names in the paper, for such accusations would only come from those who are unfriendly to the cause, and we may rest assured that they will not leave one stone unturned that would tend to defeat the law and the Goff 94, Arbie Brown 94, Hiram Ren- good that results to society from it. But, on the other hand, we may be assured that they do not Hoskins 93, Orpha Brown 93, Orville fear any encroachments upon their disgraceful and illegal traffic from the man who either from a sense of modesty or because of policy, writes against the traffic over a nom de plume They will reason, and I think correctly, too, that the man who does not sign his own name to an article in the paper denouncing the "Blind Tigers" in the strongest terms will hesitate n long time before he will take any legal steps to put an end to their nefatious

Moreover, I hold that until we are ready as individuals, to do our whole oluty and nothing but our duty regardless of any and all consequences, we will not accomplish very much toward exterminating that public nuisance, the "Blind Tiger." But the moment we resolve so to do, and begin and put our resolutions into alfect, those who conduct those places carnival, will conclude that there is a more healthful and congenial clime for them, and will at once set about J. L. TAYLOR.

AN AWFUL DISASTER.

Explosion of a Saw Mill.

Vesterday morning about 7:36 o'clock on the farm of Mr. John Mercer, about one mile from Crow-Hickman, one of the most horrible accitory of the county occurred. The boiler of a portable saw mill belonging to Mr. Taylor Paris exploded, killing five men instantly and fatally injuring another so that he died in a few hours afterward.

Those killed were: Taylor Paris, owner of the mill, John Mercer, Hol: Salee, Ed Holder and Bill Varble. Jim Mercer was fatally injured and

A fire had been built in the fire box of water was in the boiler. Taylor Paris, John Mercer, Bob Salee, Bill Varble and Ed Holder were standing near the engine getting warm. The engineer, Robert Reeves, did not like the way the engine was running and as Taylor Paris prepared to turn a lot of cold water into the red-hot boiler, that Paris was going to turn the water in he ran behind a large tree not far distant, and escaped unhurt. On Wednesday he swapped the horse to Mr. Milton Park, who lives just below town, for a mule and a dollar in money. Keith then came to Mr. Amos Miller's and while he was negotiating another trade he was overtaken and captured by Fowler and a brother-in-law whose name we failed to learn. Fowler, however, had come by Mr. Park's stable and finding his horse took possession of it and came on after Keith who gave the mule and the dollar back to Mr. Park. The parties took the young fellow back with them. Keith was from Jeffersonville, Indiana, but had been working in Fowler's neighborhood since last June. How the Capitol Dome Helped on

It was in the office of the elerk of the district courts. He had just planked dewn a dollar for a marriage lleense, and a reporter was about to add him to the list as "one more unfortunate, weary of single life, rashly importunate, going ir for married strife," but then he spoke: "Sny, triend, I wish you would leave that out of the paper." The objector to newspaper notofellow, and he continued argumenta-

"Now, I'm a newspaper man myself, and I know how you're fixed. Yon're sent here to get the news, · and naturally want to get all of it. But if you'll keep that Item out of the paper for twenty-four hours, I'll give you a story worth printing."

A mere two-line Item against, perhaps, a column; here was an inducement that no newspaper man could resist, and the reporter was not proof against temptation. Still, he was wise enough to stipulate that' the story should be given at once.

"Well, you have our names and residence from the register," said the young Benedlet-about-to-be, "and we've had quite a little romanee. She belongs to one of the best families in that country, where her father is gulte a small magnate. I went down there about three years ngo and started a paper. I did pretty well and am probably as well fixed financially as she is, but, nnfortunately, the old man and I couldn't hitch. Before I knew what a charming daughter he had I trod on his political toes pretty sharply and he never forgave mo. The old hidy, too, didn't like me, partly because I was a newcomer and not related to my of the local aristocracy, Into which she wanted her daughter "Still. Belia llked me, and you know when you have the girl and the dog on your side a fellow ean stand a good deal of snubblng. All went along very well for nwhile. I proposed and was accepted, but when I came to speak to the old man about it he fired me out bodily, or threatened to do so, and ordered me never to show my face in his house ngain. Knowlng the old man, and having due regard for my face, I never did, but managed to meet Bella on the sly, although tho old folks watched her pretty closely.

"Finally they deelded to remove her from the contamination of my neighborhood, probably on the theory that separation is a cure for such cases. Accordingly they enme to Washington for a month or so, possibly in hopes that some of these city swells might cut me out. But Bella managed to drop me a note telling mo about it, so I followed them. They've been here about a week, stopping with friends-I couldn't find out where until the other day, I hunted through all the hotels and bnuuted the streets in hopes of seeing them, when finally I remembered that strangers in the city always go rotunda every day, staying all day long. The watchmen evidently considered me a new crank in town, but finally they came—the old man, the old lady and Bella. I pulled my hat down over my eyes and hid behind a newspaper until they had passed, and then I heard them inquiring the way to the dome. When they got pretty well up the stairs I followed, and at the top, you know, It is pretty dark, so by keeping on the opposite side I managed to escape the old

"They were busy studying out the 'Apotheosis of Washington,' while Bella was leaning against the wall, looking tired and homeslek. I waited around for a chance to speak to her, but the old man kept her at his elbow, and I had about made up my mind that I would have to knock hlm down when an idea struck me,

"You know how sound travels over that urch, so that people on opposite sides of the circle can talk to each other lu whispers? I lud been there before and knew all about it, so I stood just across from Bella and spoke her name. She jumped as if she had been shot.

"'Where are you, Will?' she exelaimed, recognizing my voice at once. She had been thinking of me, she told me afterward.

"Thush!" sald I. "I'm just opposlte you; talk to the wall and I can hear all you say."

"And maybe we didn't talk. It seemed a bit unearmy to be talking to a stone wall and having your best glrl answer back. Something like the old story of Pyramus and Thisbe, only they talked through the wall. Well, she told me where she was stopping, and that It would be useless for me to try to see her nearer as she was watched all the time.

"Just then the old man chimed h and asked her to whom she was talking. She said only to herself. year. As there was no one within fifty feet of her he had to believe it.

"Well, that made me mad and also gave me another idea. I had been looking up the district marringe laws and found that one could get a license almost for the asking. There was no time to be lost, I asked Bella If she would marry me nt once, whether the old folks were willing or not, and she said she would if she could get nway. Then we cooked up a scheme. I was to get the license and engage a minister, as I have just done. To-morrow ulght they are going to a concertior something, and itella is to get sick and go home with her cousin. ford, Ky. This inabout alneo'clock. Only before going home she will stop into the house of a minister, where we will be mar-

The site of the exposition of 1900 has been definitely selected. At the meeting of the sub-committee especially appointed to settle the questlon, It was decided that the Champ de Mars, the Trocadero, the Esplanade des invalides, the Quai d'Orsay, the Palals de l'Industrie and the surrounding ground should all be devoted to the great world's show that is to be held there at the close of the century, and that the banks of the Seine should be further connected by a bridge to be constructed between the Pont de la Concorde and the Pont des Invalldes. It is interesting to note, now that this problem has been solved, that all the members of the sub-committee who attended the meeting were in favor of this choice, M. Berger, who was the sole absentee, being the only one who would have preferred Auteull; yet, as a matter of fact, M. Berger's views were originnlly shared by most of his colleagues. It was objected, however, that the distance from the center of the metropolls would be too great, and the Parlshin tradesmen, fearing that a smaller number of visitors would thus be uttracted to the city, also made their voices heard with good effect. One by one the subcommittee were brought around to the opinion that the old site was, Young Men's Christian Association after all, the best, and the resolution at which they have arrived completely settles the affair. One of the principal entrances to the exhibition will be on the Place de la Concorde, but the square itself will not be interfered with, nor, indeed, will any attempt be made to include such well-known establishments as Ledoven's restaurant und situated between the Place de la Concorde and the Palnis de l'Industrle, within the boundaries of the world's show.

People luve been inquiring with much curlosity whether the Elifel tower, which was the crowning feature of the exhibition of 1889, is to be allowed to stand, as the archltect of the elty of Parls has spoken M. Pickerd, however, said that nothing had yet been decided on the subject.-London Telegraph.

Queer Names for Streets.

A woman lately returned from Brazil tells of the curious nomenclature of the streets of Para. They to the capitol about the first thing, are Biblical or commemorative of "Then I took up my station in the some event in the Brazilian history. It seemed to her quite irreverent to be told that a desirable locality was "at the corner of St. John the Bantist and St. John the Evangelist streets." She went with her uncle, who was on business, to dine at the house of a wealthy merchint.

> Everything was very generous and lavish, in South American style, but on leaving she was amazed to have her hospitable host say to her: "If you have any washing, send it

It is the custom there, it seems, for wealthy households to take in laundry work as an employment for their large retline of servants.

"It did, however," said the relator, "give me a turn at the end of a formal dinner party to be asked Tate to get away 'scott free' and in for my solled linen.

Hartford Republican squelened for the time being. But not pay duties to the national govern- loungers. "You're looking just 11ke while it seems a pity to spoil such a ment, except for "revenue only." They attempted to nullify the constitution of the United States by passing on end, 'where was he?" an ordinance declaring the tariff law void so far as South .Carolina was concerned. That grand old patriot, Andrew Jackson, then President of long ears." the United States, said that protection was constitutional, and "By the Eternal, if one drop of blood was shed in el. "Dat was a jackass," South Carolina he would hang John C. Calhoun," He sent Gen. Scott to answered the lonnger, with a grin. Fort Moultrie and a United States war vessel to Charlston harbor, and the ing them in the face, Mr. Calhonn and his followers backed down.

To-day, we read in the Democratic platforms of 1892 the same doctrine- he; "yo' look jest like like dat lion l that "protection is unconsti u ional" -and we see men like Larry Neal, who wrote that plank of the Democratic platform, attending a banquet in memory of Gen Jackson, who threatened to hang John C. Calhoon for ad- ears." vocating the same idea that protection is unconstitutional, and who, if living to-day, would be the bitter oppoucht of Larry Neal and his kind.

Truly, the attitude of the Democratic party is ridiculous as it is astound-General Jackson was a protectionist of the strongest type, and ter. Thomas Jefferson, another "tather" of the Democratic party, was so strongly in favor of protection of American industries that he would not wear a coat not made of cloth spnn woven in the United states. Will some modern Democrat tell us how their party, advocating as it does to-day, the principles of John C. Calhoun, for which advocacy Jackson threatened to hang the South Carolinian, can pay honor to the memory well to-day. of Andrew Jackson without making

Who'd Pay the Fine? LEXINGTON LEADER.

A defaulting county treasurer in Oregon has been fined $45,000, just about double the amount he stole, and sentenced to three years in prison. Here in Kentucky they allowed Dick addition to that recently a large contingent of Frankfort Democrats signed a petition asking Governor Brown to pardon the old gentlemen on the grounds that he was more sinned against than sinning. The Oregon method of dealing with defaulters should be adopted here.
